Using the correct pronouns when referring to people is important. Sharing your own pronouns is a form of allyship.